RAISING ARMY

Of a Half Million Men is the Mikado

SCENE OF GREAT ACTIVITY

Is City of Tokyo-Field Marshal Oyama Is to be Heavily Reinforced.

Tokyo, Dec. 25.—It is today announced that eight officers and sixty-six blue jackets were killed during the efforts of the Japanese to destroy the remnant of the Russian Port Arthur fleet.

Tokyo, Dec. 26.—Tokyo is again a great military camp, and the scenes of last spring, when the first armies were mobilized and dispatched, are being duplicated. Thousands of recruits and reservists are assembled, drilling and equipping preparatory to taking the field. The permanent and temporary barracks are filled, and it is necessary to billet the soldiers brought to the city. Aoyama field is the center of activity, where infantry, cavalry and artillery are constantly drilling. The batteries fire blank charges for the purpose of breaking in the new horses. The general military preparations are enormous. It is planned to give Field Marshal Oyama a rough total of half a million men, with a heavily increased artillery arm, besides providing a defense for Formosa and the southern islands in anticipation of the Russian second Pacific squadron's attempt to seize a base. The port of Kure, in Formosa, has been declared in a state of siege, and fortifying of other positions in Formosa and the Lu-Chu islands is progressing. Winter is not interfering with the Japanese transport service. The railway between Daini and Yantai is working well, and the running time between Tokyo and Liaoyang is six days.

Japs Occupy Advanced Positions.
Tokyo, Dec. 26.—The following report was received from the besiegers at Port Arthur: "A body of our right wing surprised the enemy at Housan-tan (Housan-yentao) and Siaofan-tan, the latter about six and a half miles northwest of Port Arthur, at 10 o'clock Saturday night, and occupied the villages and, subsequently dislodging the enemy, occupied the whole of Talchiatun, about five miles northwest of Port Arthur. Our repeated attacks during the past few days were uniformly successful, and now the whole of the enemy's advanced positions fronting our right wing is in our hands."

Russian Shipyards Busy.
St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—Admiral Birtleff is quoted in an interview as saying that all the shipyards in the Baltic are working day and night, and that the third squadron will go out in two sections. The admiral pledges himself to have the first section, which will include the Senavin, Apraxin, Ushatoff, Nicholas II and Korniloff, ready by February, and the second, consisting of the Slava, Alexander II and Pamait Azova, a little later.

Feeling the Enemy.
Mukden, Dec. 26.—A Japanese battery opened fire Dec. 24 on Chanlinpu, and two men were wounded by shells. A Japanese column advanced, but was soon driven back by the Russian fire. The general situation is quiet, though Chinese reports that the Japanese are strengthening their left flank, as though in contemplation of a turning movement. On the other hand, the Japanese in many places apparently are building winter quarters.

News From the Rear.
Harbin, Dec. 26.—Chinese from the south say that the Japanese have brought 50,000 Chinese into southern Manchuria, but have great difficulty in feeding them. They also say that the Japanese have prepared 1,000 four-wheeled carts with iron shields in front and on the sides, which are to be pushed by soldiers and which are to carry rapid-fire and machine guns.

Skirmish South of Mukden.
St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—General Kuropatkin reports skirmishing Dec. 24 near Tapolan. The Russian advance posts were driven in by the Japanese, but afterward advanced again and occupied their former position. The Russian losses were trifling, while those of the Japanese were heavy.

Bulgaria's First Step.
Sofia, Dec. 26.—Bulgaria has issued a circular note to the Powers expressing the opinion that Turkey has shown inability to maintain peace in Macedonia. It is understood this is Bulgaria's first step in the campaign to induce the Powers forcibly to interfere in Macedonia.

The United States lighthouse service costs $4,500,000 a year.

MAKES DENIAL

Of the Reports of Corruption Does Canadian Finance Minister Fielding.

Naples, Dec. 26.—W. S. Fielding, finance minister in the Canadian cabinet, arrived here on board the steamship Celtic. Interviewed concerning the petitions filed in the supreme court against himself, Sir Frederick W. Borden, minister of militia and defense, and eight other leading Liberal members of parliament from Nova Scotia asking that their seats in parliament be declared vacant on the ground of alleged bribery committed by agents on their behalf in the general election of Nov. 3, Mr. Fielding said the reports of corruption in the election were absolutely without foundation, and that everything was perfectly regular in connection with the elections, which occurred three days prior to his departure. There always were some persons among the opposition, Mr. Fielding said, who spread reports of corruption and other similar reports, but notwithstanding all these efforts by the opposition, the government was returned by a largely increased majority and the opposition was hopelessly beaten. Mr. Fielding outlined the main issues on which the election hinged as, first, the proposition to build a new transcontinental line, and second, the fiscal question.

DAWES COMMISSION

Submits Report on Work Done for the Five Civilized Tribes of Indians.

Washington, Dec. 26.—The Dawes commission has submitted its report of work done for the five civilized tribes in Indian Territory. Of the various difficulties encountered they say: "Every adult or head of a family in a total of more than 200,000 citizens and claimants was personally examined and his previous tribal record was looked up. Of this number and in this way more than 120,000 have been examined since June 28, 1898. The proceedings were all taken down, especially as every case could be carried to Washington on appeal, and often the record of a single case was hundreds of pages in extent. Of the above number of people, approximately 90,000 will be finally adjudged to lawfully possess tribal membership and property rights; and it can readily be seen how a less careful course of procedure would have utterly dissipated the properties of the tribes. Speaking of the difficulties connected with the allotment work the commissioners say that speculators not overscrupulous in their business methods have attempted in every way to influence the work with a view to personal gain. "As for safeguarding the occupancy and improvement rights of the people, their houses, barns, fences and other improvements had to be located by actual surveys and with minute accuracy. Perhaps hardly a man in the territory knew the sectional divisions of his farm or the sectional location of single one of his improvements, and hence there was no source of accurate information respecting these matters except the surveys and location of improvements made by the commission."

Sent a Thousand Spoons.

Little Falls, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Dr. G. W. Little, a prominent homeopathist, remembered his patients yesterday by sending to over one thousand of them a handsome silver teaspoon on the handle of which was a picture of the doctor.

GAVE WIFE

In Payment for a Grocery Debt, It Is Alleged, But the Merchant Now Regrets the Deal.

Washington, Pa., Dec. 26.—James Baganza, a steel worker, had bought goods from Martin Edson, who conducts a grocery store. He found that after securing commodities without money that he would be unable to pay. According to testimony before a magistrate's court, he suggested to Edson that he give his wife in payment. Edson, who is a single man, agreed, having become enamored of the Baganza woman, and the bill was canceled and the woman transferred. Mrs. Baganza made no objection, it is said, but an enemy brought suit against her and Edson on a serious charge.

Edson says if they will allow him to go home he will give up the woman as well as cancel the debt against her husband. He and Mrs. Baganza are held for court under bail.

MURDER SOLVED

By Confession of a Boy at Sioux Falls.

EVIDENCE POINTED TO A MAN

Who Lived Nearby and This Friend of the Murdered Man Was Arrested.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Dec. 26.—The solving of the mystery surrounding the murder of James Garrett, a stockman whose ranch was in the northwestern portion of the state, by the confession of Otto Erickson, aged 19, who admitted that he committed the crime, with two brothers, aged 21 and 24, again shows the risk of circumstantial evidence.

Gus Matson, a stockman, who lived near Garrett's ranch, was arrested soon after the disappearance of Garrett, several weeks ago, on the charge of having murdered and hidden the body of the man. Everything appeared for a time to point to Matson as the murderer of his friend and former partner.

Matson when first arrested admitted that Garrett had been at his ranch a short time before his disappearance, and that they drank together. From this and the discovery of a trail leading across the prairie from a point within a few miles of Matson's home, and giving evidence that it had been made by the dragging of a body along the ground, many believed that Matson was responsible for the disappearance of Garrett.

But for the confession of Erickson the state would have been able to present a strong chain of circumstantial evidence against Matson.

Another circumstance which would have strengthened the case against him was the agitation shown by him when informed in his cell that the body of Garrett had been found after a systematic search lasting many days. When told of the finding of the body, Matson exclaimed:

"My God, boys, you can kill me now, but I am innocent!"

His agitation was thought to be evidence of a guilty conscience, but it is now apparent that Matson realized the position he was in, and that although innocent, he might be unable to establish his innocence had the case come to trial.

So firm was the belief in his guilt and so bitter the feeling against him that stockmen who were engaged in the search for Garrett's body proclaimed their intention of taking Matson from jail.

Now that Erickson has confessed having committed the murder, Matson is again a free man and stands vindicated before his friends and acquaintances.

Otto Erickson, the confessed murderer, was employed several years ago by the Homestead Mining company as a coal packer, and left their employ to go on a ranch with his brothers.

HEAD-ON COLLISION

Seven People Killed and Nearly Score Injured on the Southern Railway Line.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 26.—Two passenger trains on the Southern railway's St. Louis-Louisville line collided near Maud's Station, Ill. One passenger and six employees were killed and ten passengers and nine employees injured. The St. Louis-Louisville and the St. Louis-Knoxville sleepers were drawn by both trains, but none of the passengers in these four cars was injured. Both engines were badly demolished and four coaches destroyed.

The dead: Charles Schmidt, Centerville, Ill.; Engineer Bowen, Princeton, Ind.; Fireman Charles Hutt, Princeton, Ind.; Mail Clerk H. D. Hogan, Georgetown, Ind.; Section Foreman Underwood, Princeton, Ind.; Employee Henry Oskin, Tennessee, Ind.; Employee John Hudson.

Bunco King Dies.

New York, Dec. 26.—A report today reached this city from an apparently authentic source that Tom O'Brien, king of the bunco men and father of the gold brick, had died recently in a French prison, where he had been sentenced for life for murder in 1897.

A life size marble statue of the late Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas will be placed in the capitol at Washington. The statue is the work of Fidaro Landi, a sculptor whose studio is in Long Island City. The statue was ordered by the government and it took nearly a year to cut it out of a solid block of marble.

HER HUSBAND

Is Innocent Declares Mrs. Cassie Chadwick

WANTS HIM WELL TREATED

Cleveland Officer Leaves for New York to Arrest Dr. L. S. Chadwick.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Sheriff Barry of Cleveland, today failed to get the necessary papers here for the extradition of Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick, who is expected to arrive in New York from Europe Wednesday. Barry this morning conferred with Judge John Joyce, state pardon clerk. They went over the papers and Joyce raised the point that Chadwick is not in the state at this time. Joyce declared further that the papers were defective in that they did not include a certain affidavit to the effect that the doctor was in Ohio on the date on which the crime was charged as agreed to have been committed. He refused to grant the extradition papers. Barry went on to New York. He said he would meet Chadwick and tell him the situation and give him the opportunity of going to Cleveland. He thinks Dr. Chadwick will go.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26.—Before Sheriff Barry left for New York to arrest Dr. Chadwick on his arrival Mrs. Chadwick showed unusual nervousness. She finally sent for the sheriff with the statement that she wanted to talk over the trip to New York and the impending arrest of her husband. The sheriff spent almost an hour with the woman in her cell, during which time she wept convulsively. "I know you will treat my husband as kindly as possible under the circumstances, but please remember that he is innocent of any wrongdoing," said Mrs. Chadwick as the sheriff entered her jail quarters. "I never thought my husband would be dragged into this affair; it is so unjust, for if ever an honest man lived it is my husband."

Mrs. Chadwick asked the sheriff to tell her in detail of all his plans. Several times she referred to the doctor's daughter by a former wife, who is returning with Dr. Chadwick to this country. The woman also especially asked that the sheriff do everything possible to make the situation as easy as possible for the young girl. "Remember all I have told you," called out Mrs. Chadwick as Sheriff Barry was leaving the jail. "This is terrible, but there is one satisfaction—I will see my husband soon."

TO THE WOLVES
MAN THREW CHILD AND KEPT WIFE FROM SAVING IT.
Horrible Deed of a Minnesota Farmer Who Is Being Hotly Pursued by a Mob.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 26.—A telephone message from Wilberton, a woodman's settlement in northern Minnesota, is to the effect that a mob is pursuing Henry Shorely, who, it is claimed, threw his six-months-old babe into the mouths of a half dozen wolves which were attacking the Shorely family.

By frenzy, or in a moment of insanity, Shorely threw the baby from the wagon. Mrs. Shorely attempted to jump from the vehicle to save her child, but was prevented by her husband.

The wolves virtually ate the child alive, tearing the flesh from its bones before the very eyes of its frantic mother. Shorely, holding his wife with one hand, beat his team with the other. Reaching home he drew up to the gate, cropping his lines and jumping from the wagon, running into a batch of timber.

At the same time the mother ran up the road over the track just covered. She was followed by her children all screaming frantically. A neighbor heard their screams and overtook them. The woman then was raving. The farmer managed to throw Mrs. Shorely on her back and hold her while the children told the story.

In the meantime several other men, attracted by the screams, learned the story and went in pursuit of Shorely. Neighbors say Shorely is absolutely without feeling. His children bear testimony of his British nature. The eldest, a boy of 15 years, was only with difficulty restrained from joining the mob. Shorely may evade his pursuers in the woods, but if he does not he will undoubtedly be brought out riddled with bullets.

Mrs. Shorely's condition is critical. She constantly grapples with men who are holding her, begging them to allow her to save her child.

"ARROW" FLIES

Baldwin's Airship Makes a Successful Trip

KNABENSHUE AT THE HELM

In Little Over an Hour the Ship Made Trip Of Probably Twenty Miles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—Captain Baldwin's airship, California Arrow, driven by Roy Knabenshue of Toledo, Ohio, who made several successful flights in the same machine from the world's fair grounds at St. Louis, was given its first trial in California Christmas day, and was successful, with the single exception of its failure to land at the starting point. A landing was effected half a mile away without damage to the machine, and it was safely towed back to its anchorage.

The Arrow started from Chute's park baseball grounds, in the southeastern part of the city at 3 15 p. m., sailed with the wind northward for about ten miles, thence eastward for two miles and returned in the face of a 12-mile gale to a point directly above the starting place.

Owing to the supply of gasoline running short, Knabenshue was unable to effect a landing at exactly the desired spot.

From the time the airship arose from the baseball grounds until it was safely anchored at Pico and Stanford streets it was in flight 1 hour and 12 minutes, and in that time sailed a distance of probably 20 miles.

When flying with the wind the Arrow traveled at a speed of 20 miles an hour, and returning directly in the face of the strong southeastern gale was able to make a rate of speed reckoned at between six and eight miles an hour.

The airship was maneuvered by Knabenshue in every direction, responding readily to its rudder, circling and turning in any direction, sailing directly in the face of the wind or at an angle, and rising and dipping as the operator directed.

The Arrow rose at times to a height of probably 3,000 feet or more, with Knabenshue regulating the height by shifting his weight and raising or lowering the bow of the craft as he desired to ascend or descend.

A Nuptial Record.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 26.—One week from today Walter Carpenter will celebrate his 99th birthday anniversary. He and his wife have been married a longer period than any other couple in Indiana. Their seventy-first wedding anniversary will be observed next spring. Both are in fair health.

NECK BROKEN

By a Blow From a Fist When He Broke Into His Father-in-Law's House.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 26.—Geo. Reinert, a coal miner, aged 40 and married, was killed Sunday at the home of his father-in-law, W. T. Leggett. Reinert went to the home of Leggett and broke in the door.

Late in the afternoon George Newman, upon the recommendation of Coroner Matt Walling, was arrested charged with the murder of Reinert.

He was sleeping with Leggett when Reinert called at the house and attacked him. Coroner Walling failed to find any wounds on Reinert, but his neck was broken. It is said that his death was caused from a blow from Newman. Newman is a son-in-law of Leggett.

SKULL CRUSHED

But Man Was Conscious Long Enough to Say He Had Been Assaulted.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26.—John Donahue, 46, a mover, was found unconscious in a chair at his home last night, the victim of a mysterious assault. He was taken to a hospital and cannot recover. He was badly beaten and his skull is crushed. He pronounced consciousness this morning long enough to tell the police that he was assaulted by some men as he entered his home. Fred Goettlieb was a suspect on suspicion in connection with the case.

Mrs. James Brown Potter has just returned in London a dramatic version of the opera "Pagliacci." The play was well received.

USED THEIR RAZORS

Two Policemen Are Fatally Injured. Negroes Locked up in New Jersey.

New York, Dec. 26.—Two policemen fatally injured, a third badly hurt and four negroes locked up is the result of a battle that took place in North Plainfield, N. J., between firemen, policemen and citizens on one side, and a gang of negroes on the other. Marshal Joseph Flack and Special Policeman William Kilen are dying in Muhlenberg hospital, the former with a deep knife-thrust below the right shoulder and the latter with razor cuts over his entire body, 60 stitches having been required to close the wounds. A third policeman, Walter O. Smalley, is at his home, his face battered and bruised. The prisoners are Samuel Hunt, Walter Toms, Albert Tunstall and Joseph Henderson, all residents of Plainfield.

The negroes had been standing on street corners yelling "merry Christmas" at every one who passed and demanding money to buy drinks. The policemen attempted to arrest the gang and were knocked down and beaten. They did not shoot for fear of hitting onlookers. The firemen and citizens joined in the battle, which was waged nearly half an hour.

BY DETECTIVES

Geo. E. Letcher Wanted in Ohio Is Kidnapped—He Is Now Out of California.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—George E. Letcher of San Jose, who is wanted by the Ohio authorities on the charge of arson committed in that state 25 years ago and who has been residing by legal expedients extrajurisdictionally, was kidnapped by detectives and taken in a launch to the pier, where the eastern overland train was boarded. Letcher is now out of the jurisdiction of the courts of this state.

Shot Two Trainmen.
Gallipolis, O., Dec. 26.—Because he had been ejected from a Hoeking Valley passenger train by its crew, Edgar Grover, son of the postmaster at Pine Bluff, in this county, shot both the trainmen, probably fatally wounding the brakeman and seriously injuring the conductor. Immediately after the shooting Grover disappeared, and has not as yet been apprehended.

Kicked Burglar Out.
Dayton, O., Dec. 26.—Harry Gehhart was caught by Walter McAndrews in the act of robbing the latter's room. McAndrews compelled the frightened burglar to light the gas, shove back the money he had stolen and then kicked him out of the house. Gehhart was arrested later, fined $25 and costs and committed to the workhouse.

Killed Wife and Shot Son.
Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—James O'Neil, who is wanted for the murder of his wife and shooting his son in a drunken rage, was reported as having been seen yesterday evening, but has not yet been captured. James O'Neil, Jr., the son who was shot, is still in St. Francis hospital, but has not been told of his mother's death.

Editor's Christmas Gift.
Tiffin, O., Dec. 26.—Colonel Ike Gray, editor of the Bloomville Independent, has been notified that he is one of several heirs to a fortune of $100,000 in Philadelphia. The estate was bequeathed by James Gamble, a wealthy manufacturer.

Got a Christmas Pardon.
Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—Joseph J. Levo, serving a life sentence for second degree murder from Hamilton county, received the Christmas pardon from Governor Horlick and was released from the penitentiary.

No Danger of Race Suicide.
Kent, O., Dec. 26.—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore residing three miles west of Kent. This is the twenty-first child born to Mr. and Mrs. Moore. Nineteen of them are living.

Aged Man Killed.

Ashtabula, O., Dec. 26.—Dr. Stephen F. Selby, aged 90, fell down a flight of stairs and died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James K. Selby.

A $300,000 Fire.

New York, Dec. 26.—The chapel of St. Peter's Basilica at New Brighton was destroyed by fire early today. The old edifice in the harbor turned out to battle with the flames, and a general alarm was rung in all over Staten Island, but in a half hour only the toppling walls were left. The loss is $300,000. The fire started from defective electric wires. The chapel was one of the most interesting religious structures in the country. It contained the best and most expensive organ in the United States and beautiful colored windows.

Besides 15 persons killed in street accidents in London last year 16,202 were injured.

IN COLORADO

Peabody May be Seated as Chief Executive

ASSEMBLY WILL CAST VOTE

Democrats Assert That a Monstrous Conspiracy Exists in Colorado Politics.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 26.—If the Fifteenth general assembly of Colorado, which is to meet on Wednesday, Jan. 4, shall efface the plans formulated by the managers of the Republican post-election campaign, Governor James H. Peabody may serve as chief executive of this state for two years more, despite the fact that Alva Adams still has nearly 10,000 plurality since the votes of five Denver precincts were thrown out bodily by order of the supreme court in consequence of frauds exposed in contempt proceedings against election officials. There will be a Republican majority of 20 or more in the general assembly which will canvass the vote for state officers. It is proposed to have the general assembly appoint a special contest committee of nine to twelve members, to which will be submitted the evidence of wholesale election frauds in Denver and possibly some other counties, which evidence the Republican committees have been collecting ever since the election. The Republican managers maintain that with fraudulent vote of Denver eliminated Governor Peabody will have at least 7,000 plurality in this county and 2,000 in the state.

These politicians do not intend that the legal votes shall be sifted from the illegal and then counted, or that the legislature shall reject the entire vote of Denver county, because to do this would not accomplish their purpose to reseat Governor Peabody, but they purpose that about 1,800 Democratic precincts shall be thrown out on the ground of alleged frauds, and that the vote of the Republican precincts shall be counted. They assert that the supreme court has established a precedent for such a procedure.

This radical program is opposed by some conservative Republican leaders, including Judge N. Walter Dixon of Pueblo and Dr. John Grass of Trinidad, and until the legislature meets and takes action it can not be known certainly whether Peabody or Adams will be governor for the next two years. The Democratic leaders are preparing to contest vigorously the attempt to reseat Peabody. Bipartisan meetings are to be held in Denver, Pueblo and other cities to protest against the line of action mapped out for the legislature by the Republican leaders. The Liberty league, a political organization of union workmen, is also preparing to take an active part in the efforts that will be made to defeat the attempt to continue Governor Peabody in office.

The Democratic managers declare there is a monstrous conspiracy behind the disclosures of fraud shown in contempt proceedings before the supreme court. They say that the bunches of spurious ballots, all in one handwriting, found in the boxes from different precincts, could not have been placed in the boxes on election day without having been observed by the watchers, and charge that the boxes have been tampered with since election, legal votes being abstracted and spurious ballots substituted therefor. No proof in support of these assertions has been presented, but it is pointed out that the boxes were left unwatched for two days after being delivered to the election commission, and that for another day were in charge of only two Republican watchers.

BRYAN ROASTED 90 MINUTES

Locked in With Sizzling Radiator and Was Rescued in a Fainting Condition.

Denver, Dec. 26.—Securely locked in the office of the station master at the Union station, unable to open a window or to turn off the steam sizzling from the radiator, William Jennings Bryan Saturday spent the hottest hour and a half he has known for some time.

Imprisoned in this impromptu Turkish bath and wearing winter clothing, Mr. Bryan was rescued in a fainting condition. The ex-candidate arrived some time before his train was due to start, and said he wished to write a letter. He was taken to the station master's office and was left there. As the door had a spring lock and only opens with a key, Mr. Bryan had to wait until help came.

President Roosevelt has appointed a grandson of Stonewall Jackson as a cadet to West Point military academy, and named a son of General J. E. E. Stuart as United States marshal for the Eastern district of Virginia. These appointments are taken as an indication of the President's desire to earn the good will of the Southern people. He can, however, more effectively do this by making it known that he will give no countenance to any scheme affecting Southern representation in Congress which is not drawn so as to apply with equal fairness to all other sections of the country. Nothing will so serve to keep alive a bitter feeling between the sections as the continued exploitation of this scheme to disfranchise the Southern States, and the President cannot speak out too early and too plainly upon the subject.

Great Schools In Great Cities.

President Butler of Columbia university recently expressed in public the opinion that "there can be no university in the modern sense save in a great city." This is but an echo of the ideas of his predecessor, the Hon. Seth Low. Mr. Low contended that the university student should study human nature by close contact and that the great, busy, rushing city is the best point of vantage for the purpose. The truth is that the presidents of Columbia are on the defensive and must present some claims for their institution planted in a village 150 years ago and now in the heart of a modern Babylon. A city-university will have its special atmosphere and character, but it is yet to be proved that only in a city can there exist a really great educational institution. In fact, the distractions of cities are held to be a detriment to student life. Some of the greatest universities of Europe are in towns or cities of moderate size, like our own Cornell, Yale and Princeton. These are all growing great in "the modern sense."

The coach of the Harvard eleven recently announced that only one of his men had come through the season without injury of some sort. A Chicago newspaper which has been keeping close watch upon the football field throughout the country reports a total of fourteen deaths from the game in the past season and injuries as follows:

Collar bone broken, 24; shoulder dislocated, 21; leg broken, 17; rib broken, 18; nose broken, 16; arm fractured, 11; hand broken, 4; skull fractured, 3; knee dislocated, 4; concussion of spine, 6; internal injuries, 5; concussion of brain, 4; hip dislocated, 2; foot broken, 2; shoulder broken, 2; ankle broken, 2; unclassified, 154. Total, 236.

A more open style of play than now prevails would undoubtedly decrease the casualty list as well as add to the interest of the game.

The romantic element of war is not entirely extinct. The exploits of General Nogi's special corps of "fortress climbers," with their two swords apiece, will do much to lighten the annals of the Japanese-Russian conflict.

Judging from their chivalrous treatment of beautiful Russian maidens looking for their lost sweethearts, the Manchurian brigands, and the red beards, are the real thing and no ordinary yellow faced, pigtailed cutthroats.

Oxford university in rejecting the proposal to exempt candidates for mathematical and natural science honors from the compulsory study of Greek retains its reputation as the headquarters of conservatism.

The Chinese of Mukden are said to regard General Kuropatkin's new twenty horsepower automobile with religious awe. They will regard it with some other kind of awe after it has run over a few of them.

Our Naval Armament.

The general board of the navy proposes to add to our armament 3 battleships, 5 cruisers, 6 destroyers, 6 torpedo boats and 2 colliers. There are now in the navy fit for service 267 war vessels. In case of war the government could put in commission in the course of a few weeks 13 battleships, 2 armored cruisers, 18 protected cruisers, 12 large gunboats, 16 destroyers, 50 steel torpedo boats, 8 submarine torpedo boats, 7 monitors, 17 light cruisers, 50 light gunboats and 1 ram for harbor defense. Should a fleet be ordered into active operations it would comprise the 15 fighting ships—that is, the battleships, armored and protected cruisers and large gunboats supported by the torpedo flotilla. The largest colliers now in service have a displacement of from 6,000 to 7,500 tons. The new colliers projected will be of the largest class and have the cruising speed of the battleships. The problem of the Russian Baltic fleet demonstrates the necessity of large colliers capable of high speed.

Of the battleships now in commission the Kearsarge, Alabama, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts and Missouri are in the battleship squadron of the north Atlantic fleet, the Texas is in the Atlantic coast squadron, the Wisconsin and Oregon are in the Asiatic fleet, and the Ohio is awaiting orders at San Francisco. The Indiana is undergoing repairs at the New York navy yard. Of the thirteen battleships under construction four will be ready for service in 1905, four in 1906, four in 1907 and one in 1908.

An Example For New Immigrants.

Great Britain is again taking note of the emigration from Ireland to America. It seems to be increasing. Since immigration set in strongly toward these states over 4,000,000 souls from Erin have sought refuge here. During the same period over 5,000,000 have come from Germany, and these two nationalities stand first and second in point of numbers contributed toward the 80,000,000 Americans of today. It is computed that there are more people of Irish birth and descent in this country, counting the second and third generations, than there are in Ireland. The German and Irish immigrants of one and two generations ago were received here with misgivings. Naturally they were not of the highest class in social development. Neither were all of our ancestors of Puritan days. But the newcomers proved industrious and public spirited. They became Americans in every sense. Fortunately the Irish speak our language, and the Germans are quick to learn it. If the immigrants from the extreme north of Europe and from the extreme south, too, would follow the example of the Germans and Irish in adapting themselves to new conditions they would be equally welcome. But many are slow to learn new ways, and they are clannish, preferring to keep to themselves. The Germans and Irish have fared well, and all nationalities coming to these shores may repeat the experience if they but show like eagerness to become Americans.

Reports from the seat of war in the east make scant mention of prisoners. This may seem that no quarter is the rule in the field fighting as well as at Port Arthur, or it may only indicate that the soldiers prefer to fight to the death rather than be at the mercy of their conquerors. A war prison equals in horror the bloodiest battlefield, and from a military point of view it is a good sign when soldiers prefer death to captivity. As a rule soldiers pity the lot of a prisoner, but it is impossible for any government, however humane, to mitigate the hardships of its captives when they are taken in large numbers. If the wounded soldiers in Manchuria beg to be dispatched on the battlefield it is no novelty, savage as it may seem to those who read of it by their peaceful firesides.

The American farmer seems to be on the highroad to plutocracy. The secretary of agriculture in his annual report states that the proceeds of the corn crop of 1901 would alone more than pay the national debt, while the total value of farm products for the year amounts to $4,900,000,000. This is an increase of 9.65 per cent over 1901 and of 31.28 over the census year of 1890. The increase of capital invested in agriculture since 1900 is estimated at $2,000,000,000. Banks in agricultural states show a remarkable increase in deposits, 164 per cent in Iowa, 219 per cent in Kansas, 501 per cent in Mississippi. The number of depositors has grown in like proportion.

The statement that Japanese soldiers can fight for twenty-four hours on a ration of two or three beans and a sip of tea is no longer incredible. It is explained that a Japanese bean is three feet long and corpulent in proportion.

Recent events in France seem to prove that the Dreyfus affair has not done much toward purifying the army of the third republic.

IRRITATION

of the throat, sore and swollen tonsils, loss of voice, and other throat troubles should never be neglected. These ailments quickly work down to the lungs, and often end in consumption or pneumonia.

HAMLIN'S WIZARD OIL used as a gargle, and externally on the throat, is a marvelous remedy for these painful and dangerous disorders, and effects relief and cure after everything else has failed.

Says Henry Wade, of Harlin, Mo.: "I am under obligations to you for the great good which Hamlin's Wizard Oil did my wife. She suffered from throat trouble for a year, and though she doctor-d and doctored, nothing did her any good, until she tried Hamlin's Wizard Oil." Price 50c and $1.00.

UNDER SOUTHERN SKIES.

Regarding "Under Southern Skies" the Council Bluffs, Ia., Nonpareil, of October 24, says: "The best play of the season at the New Theatre, and for that matter one of the best ever presented in the historic house, was 'Under Southern Skies' given there last evening by a capable company of 24 people. A capacity house greeted the clever performance and liberally applauded the players for their excellent interpretation of the charming southern drama." Auditorium soon.

WHO GOES THERE?

This is what was heard from satisfied theatre goers after the performance of "Who Goes There?" at the Globe last night: "Never laughed so much in all my life," "Funniest show I've seen for years," "I shall certainly go again," "That contoured Perkins gave me a sideache," etc., etc., ad lib. Perkins has certainly struck a fortune in "Who Goes There?" Pre-eminently it is a farce comedy of the cleanest, freshest and purest type. It is chock-full of the most ridiculous situations imaginable, with a safety valve that operates bubblingly on the risibles of the audience lucky enough to be present. The abbreviated comedian is at his best, and his boyish 2-mark face and saucer-like eyes have full sway for an all too short two hours and a half. At Auditorium Friday, Jan. 6.

BETRAYED AT THE ALTAR.

The London Times says of "Betrayed at the Altar": "Not for many weeks has so interesting a play been seen at the Princess than Betrayed at the Altar, which opened an engagement at that house last night. It is not the cheap trashy melodrama so often seen at this house, but it possesses much that is usually found in the high class productions. The language is good, the lines particularly clear and the situations startling. Not for many a day has a Princess audience been so engrossed in a plot and it took some minutes after the final curtain to bring the audience back to earth again." Auditorium soon.

Utica, O., Dec. 26.—Utica's second glass factory will start with pots boiling next Saturday. About sixty people will be employed this season and after next summer when tanks will be installed, the force will be increased to more than 100.

At the Utica factory No. 1 Saturday a little trouble occurred between Charles Richter and a snapper named "Frenchy." It seems that Richter wanted something that was locked in a cupboard but "Frenchy" objected and struck Richter on the face with an iron bar. It is said he was unconscious for some time but is today reported to be no worse for the encounter. The Utica factory now employs 110 hands.

The typhoid epidemic seems to have been cornered by the doctors. No new cases have developed for three weeks. Miss Susie Coad, the school teacher, and Mrs. Benedict's little daughter, who have been quite sick for four weeks, are now improving.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists and one-dollar size.

You may have a bottle of Swamp-Root sample bottle by mail. Name of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Hackett In New Romance

"The Fortunes of the King" Tells an Interesting Story of Old English Days. Emile Bruguiere and His Songs--Gossip of the Rialto.

(From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.)

James K. Hackett is now at the Lyric theater in a new romantic drama by Mrs. Charles A. Doremus and Leonidas Westervelt entitled "The Fortunes of the King." The story deals with Charles Stuart, afterward Charles II. of England.

For Mr. Hackett the authors have written a role that is said to be better suited to his taste and temperament than any that he has ever before essayed. The actor has full opportunity to display his best ability in comedy, sentiment and deep emotion, and naturally he is finely adapted to represent a man of Stuart's physique and gallant bearing.

The Story of the Play.

"The Fortunes of the King" is founded upon certain incidents in the checkered and very interesting career of "Bonny Prince Charlie," later king of England. The entire action of the play takes place during the sixteen days immediately following the battle of Worcester, when Charles was defeated by Cromwell's army and was obliged to seek refuge in France. His escape from England was, of course, a perilous undertaking, as he was pursued and harried by the Roundheads, and to elude them he was obliged to employ strategy as well as force of arms.

The King Falls In Love.

During this trying period Charles, according to the dramatists, meets the bewitching Jane Lane (played by Charlotte Walker) and in the midst of many dangers finds time and inclination to lose his heart to her, while she, not knowing his real station, bestows upon him her ardent and honest love.

In the opening act Charles saves the life of the heroine, and when she asks the name of her rescuer he gives a fictitious one.

Jane Saves the King.

Later Charles finds refuge in the home of the Lanes, and at a moment when he is about to be captured he is saved in turn by the quick witted action of the heroine. Further dangers close in upon him, however, which require all his fortitude and daring to meet and overcome. In these adventures the heroine plays a worthy part, and when at the last she stands side by side with her lover to meet the final peril she has well won that honored place.

Emile Bruguiere, Successful Composer.

Emile Bruguiere, composer of the music of the tuneful "The Baroness Fiddsticks" at the Casino, is one of the few men of unlimited wealth who finds time to occupy a position of distinct usefulness in the busy world of men and affairs. Mr. Bruguiere has striking musical ability, as evidenced by the success of practically every song he wrote for "The Baroness Fiddsticks," and another light opera, "The Three Kings of Korea," is to be produced by Macdonald and Sullivan in January.

Foreign Decorations.

Mr. Bruguiere, who is a sometime resident of California, Newport and New York, has received several decorations from several European sovereigns in recognition of his composition of music for various of Tennyson's poems. His music has a charm that one finds difficult to dispel.

Concerning Great Roles.

The superior performance of a notable role often makes that role as distinctly the property of the player as it is the property of the author. He or she becomes identified with it in the public mind, and only the most venturesome of lesser lights would have the temerity to challenge comparisons by appearing in the same part.

Sir Henry Irving's Shylock is as definitely and distinctly his own as though he had copyrighted "The Merchant of Venice." The recollection of Edwin Booth's Hamlet has written failure across many another worthy impersonation of the Dane.

Miss Rehan's Katherine.

Ada Rehan's Katherine, concerning which William Whiter wrote a book, has become so indelibly fixed in the mind as hers that one cannot think of "The Taming of the Shrew" without thinking of Miss Rehan. She acted in the play for the first time on Jan. 18, 1887, and immediately effected recollections even of so splendid a portrayal of Katherine as was shown by Marie Seebach when she visited this country in 1870. Miss Rehan's return to the role this season, while she still has the virility and physical energy required for it, is a fortunate circumstance for all thoughtful theater goers.

Keley-Shannon Plans.

Sam S. Shubert's change of mind concerning the revival of "Young Mr. Whittier" for Herbert Keley and Effie Shannon leaves those two efficient actors temporarily without a play. This deficiency will be made up by January, when the co-stars are to appear either in an original comedy of New York life or in an adaptation of Hamlin Garland's novel, "Hesper." The roles of Jack Raymond and Anne Ruppert should be admirably suited to Mr. Keley and Miss Shannon, who had somewhat similar parts in "Her Lord and Master."

The Forgetful Public.

It is interesting to note how a great success, no matter what lesser successes it follows, obliterates public recollection of the preceding career of a player. Who remembers what Wilton Lackaye did before he was seen as Svengali in "Trilby"? De Wolf Hopper might have come into being and "Wang" simultaneously as far as general knowledge of his earlier achievements is concerned. And yet Mr. Hopper was one of the most profitable stars in the country before J. Cheever Goodwin ever suggested to him the production of "Wang." There is no question, however, that the comic opera did much for Mr. Hopper, who has revived it now, under direction of Sam S. Shubert and William A. Brady, with even more than his customary success.

Bulger and His "Pipes."

The "Woodland" "bird" company, which recently followed "Parsifal" at the New York theater, closed its road tour in Omaha, Neb., and was brought from there direct to New York. Harry Bulger rode part of the way on the engine, but paid for his experience with a bad cold. The first thing he did on reaching his room at an uptown hotel was to ring for a bell boy. When he appeared Bulger said to him:

"Go down and tell the clerk I am suffering from a sore throat. We have got a hard rehearsal today, and I want him to send a doctor up here to 'fix my pipes.'"

"Do you want any particular physician?" inquired the boy.

"No; I don't care who he is if he is a good one and you can get him right away," replied Bulger.

The boy went down, and Bulger had waited but a few moments in his room when up came the physician's curl, bearing the appropriate name, "Dr. Plumber." Bulger said he thought the clerk was "stinging" him till the physician followed the card and proved he was "on the level."

GOLF METHODS.

A New System, the Australian, Would Simplify Championship Meets.

What is the ideal system of conducting a national golf championship? With its ever changing methods of conducting the amateur event each year it appears as if the United States Golf association has yet to hit upon a method calculated to result in universal satisfaction. There is another—the Australian method—thus far untried in this country, although undoubtedly possessing its good points.

In that country the amateur and open championships are held in conjunction, the first two days of the meeting being devoted to the open championship at seventy-two holes medal play. Both amateurs and professionals compete. The sixteen amateurs having the lowest medal scores at the end of the two days' qualify to continue at match play rounds at thirty-six holes on succeeding days for the amateur championship.

A method such as this would certainly tend to keep out the many second raters who compete in the national event each year, and it would also do away with the oft perplexing problem of selecting championship links, as one course would do for both events, pool, a big trout, known to inhabit it these three years or more, which quite disclaimed to notice the most artistic dices of the gentlemen sportsmen or their liveliest mimosa. His special haunt was beneath the roots of the big bending sycamore which leaned far out over the stream. Without a tremor she climbed into the tree's low crotch by a pathway of loosely laid rails, established herself as comfortably as possible and dropped her hook right in front of the big fellow's nose.

She could not see him—the water was just delicately turbid from rains two days back—but she felt him nudge a bit, then saw the water swirl as with an unseen hand. Descending to him, she laid half out of the water ten yards away. She drew in her hook, to find half the bait bitten off, and as she put on fresh worms she said, with a smiling nod: "Old man, Sukey ought to have come along. She could have got points on how to hook and land the preacher."

She was too intent on sport to hear a little stifled laugh. Indeed, she had no consciousness of anything just then but the matter in hand. She had cast a little way from where the trout broke. For perhaps two minutes the float lay ungraciously expressionless, simply drifting a bit in the eddy of the pool; then it went under with a rush, to come up two yards away and go down again almost instantly. The trout, held from long inactivity, had swallowed the hook.

Alicia did not try to haul him in at once. Instead she let him play up stream and down, taking in the slack with bare hands and letting it go back with a rush that must have bewildered her captive. After a ten minutes' fight she hauled in her quarry, two pounds of gleaming silver, and, holding him fast, made to scramble down to the bank.

Dismay smote her as she turned about. The rails had slipped down. She was fairly entrapped. The tree crotch overhanging the water, which was, she knew, well over her head, although she could swim a little, she did not like to risk a plunge. Yet there seemed no alternative. The handway side of the big trunk was not to be reached from where she sat. She made an impatient little swing of her catch, saying: "There, you'll get back in the water after all and take me with you. I think I'll tie you to me and make you swim out."

"Better not," a man's voice said a little way off. "I don't believe he would swim out. He'd rather keep you down at the bottom."

"Then come and take me down," Alicia said disdainfully, angry beyond words that anything masculine could thus calmly contemplate her plight instead of flying to the rescue. She heard long, firm steps approaching. By craning her neck severely she saw a man, young, handsome, well set up, evidently an athlete, and fashionably dressed. "So you are Alicia Blair, my hostess in part?"

"And how came you here when you are looked for at the house?" Alicia demanded severely.

Paul Redmond laughed. "Because I had rather be here," he retorted. "My traps have gone on homeward to announce me, but I heard so much of that 'tomboy granddaughter' on the way from town, when my guide, Deacon Estis, who fetched me by the short cut to show me—well, several things—said that she is, right now, a fish-hunter. I simply had to come and see for myself."

"How long since?" Alicia asked, her face scarlet. Redmond laughed again. "The point is immaterial," he said. "Just now the burning question is, 'How shall I get down?'"

"That's easy. Put up the rails and go away," Alicia said.

Redmond shook his head. "I can't trust you. The rails might slip," he said. "I know a better way, but first fling me your fish."

Obediently Alicia swung him her gasping prize. He at once slipped a timber pronged twig through its gills and anchored it comfortably in the stream, saying: "Let the example bear fruit, Miss Alicia. Don't give any of your later captives needless agony."

"You don't seem to care about me. I'm very uncomfortable," Alicia said with spirit. "If you won't put up the rails, at least go away. The water is deep—still!"

"You are not going into it," Redmond said quickly, stepping upon the leaning trunk and clinging fast to it with one arm. He held the other out toward her, saying with a twinkle: "One, two, three! Here we go! Jump! I'll catch you right as a triquet."

"I won't jump," Alicia said with her grandest air.

Redmond looked at her severely. "You will jump," he repeated, "and right straight off! It's going to rain like fun in about twenty minutes, and unless you take me to the house I shall get very wet."

"I thank you are—despicable," Alicia pointed. But as he looked at her, smiling more roguishly than ever, she gave a spring, was caught and swung safe to the bank. There Redmond said to her, her eyes fairly dancing: "I don't know Sukey, but really she should have come along. She would certainly have got points on—making a mistake."

Which proved to be prophetic. Six months later Alicia Blair was Alicia Redmond, and not only resigned to the change, but happy over it.

Lost His Head.

One of Philadelphia's well known literary men has just come back from England. He is looking very well, and one of his friends complimented him on it. "You're getting fat, old man. Never saw you looking better."

"Well, no. Fact is, I'm really thinner. I've lost fourteen pounds."

"If that's so? What did you lose it on—the Derby?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

MANY WEDDINGS

SLY DAN CUPID HAD A BUSY DAY CHRISTMAS.

Contracting Parties Young People Who Join Hands for Weal or for Woe.

As usual Christmas proved to be a favorite wedding day. Several couples were united "for better or for worse" on this day.

TAYLOR-SANDS.

Mr. Walter O. Taylor, a prominent farmer residing near Chalfants, and Miss Anna Belle Sands, daughter of Mr. O'Brien Sands of Brownsville, were married on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The ceremony took place at the parsonage of the First M. E. church, this city, and was performed by the Rev. C. L. Sparks. The happy couple will reside on the farm of the groom.

WATERMAN-NASH.

Edward A. Waterman, a well known and highly respected young man of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss Bessie Nash, daughter of Wm. Nash of this city, were married on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, and was performed by the Rev. L. C. Sparks, in the presence of a few of the relatives and close friends of the contracting parties. The beautiful ring ceremony was used. At the conclusion of the ceremony a bountiful wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Waterman left for Indianapolis on the 6 o'clock evening train where they will make their home, and where Mr. Waterman is cashier of the National Biscuit Co. They have the best wishes of all their friends.

SHAFFER-GOSNELL.

Edward J. Shaffer of Columbus, and Miss Elvora Gosnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gernell of Fredonia, were married on Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. L. C. Sparks at the First M. E. parsonage. Mr. Shaffer is the foreman of the Rock Plaster Company of Columbus, and the happy couple will make their home in that city.

JORDAN-BUXTON.

At 12 o'clock noon on Christmas day at the residence of Dr. J. W. Buxton in Homer, occurred the wedding of Dr. and Mrs. Buxton's daughter, Miss Ethel to Mr. John Wesley Jordan, a popular school teacher of Johnstown. The Rev. Mr. Haas officiated. The bride wore a becoming gown of white silk. Miss Buxton, who has been teaching school near Homer for some time, is a young woman of ability and refinement. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan's many friends in the county will extend their congratulations.

STICKLE-ROBINSON.

On Christmas morning at 8 o'clock at the Church of Christ parsonage, 155 North Fifth street, Rev. H. Newton Miller united in marriage Ira D. Stickle, an employee of the Everett glass factory, and Miss Beatrice Dossia Robinson. For the present they will make their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stickle, on Beech street.

MOLTER-LUGENBEAL.

Rev. H. Newton Miller performed the ceremony which united in marriage Chas. Molter and Miss Zella Belle Lugeneal, at 9 o'clock Christmas morning at his home on North Fifth street. The groom is now an employee of the Webber Company, and is a son of Wm. H. Molter of Frazzysburg, while the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Lugeneal of near Granville. They will return to Newark after spending the holidays in Frazzysburg.

M CANN-WEISS.

Mr. Earl McCann of German street, and Miss Rosa Weiss were married at 2 p. m. Christmas day, at the home of Rev. H. Newton Miller. The couple were attended by Mr. Hal Marriott and Miss Katie Donar. For the present they will live with the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCann, on German street.

AT JOHNSTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ashbrook Celebrated Their Fifteenth Wedding Anniversary.

Johnstown, O., Dec. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ashbrook celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding at their home here Saturday with about 150 of their friends present to participate in the festivities. Others who had been invited were unable to be present owing to the stormy weather.

The affair was one of the most enjoyable ever held here and notwithstanding the fact that the cards read "no presents" the bride and groom received a number of beautiful gifts from their friends. Mrs. Ashbrook appeared in the wedding gown she wore just fifteen years ago.

GOLDEN WEDDINGS

Are Quite Common in This Nebraska Family—The Third is Just Celebrated.

Peru, Neb., Dec. 26.—The extraordinary record of three golden weddings in one family was completed when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Williams of Peru celebrated the anniversary of their half century of married life. William, Alexander and Katherine McKenney, youngest of twelve children of Mr. and Mrs. J. Myer McKenney, have all celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries within the last three years.

The three couples are still living, with the exception of Mrs. Alexander McKenney, who died on reaching the half century of married life. All three families resided in London precinct, and were highly respected. They were members of the Methodist church, as are most of their descendants.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS

For Brothers and Sisters Who Met After 20 Years—Had Been Separated in Youth.

A meeting after 20 years' ignorance of the whereabouts of brother and sister, occurred in Wells' furniture store in Zanesville Saturday, and proved a happy Christmas incident.

Frank Vogel, a resident of that city, is a clerk in the store. A woman had stopped at the store to make a holiday purchase. During the conversation she made the remark that her maiden name was George. This interested Mr. Vogel, as it was his name before he was adopted by a family named Vogel, while his sister had been brought up by another family in a strange city. They compared notes and made the joyful discovery that they were brother and sister.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for now poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

C. T. Bricker, Special Agent.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of The Peoples' National bank, will be held at the bank in Newark, Ohio, on Tuesday the 10th day of January, 1905, between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., for the election of a board of directors to serve for the ensuing year. E. M. BAUGHER, 12-month Vice President.
